

METEOR CAUSES HAVOC IN NEARBY COUNTIES

Comet Falls Near Stanford, Shaking Up Number of Towns—Trying To Locate "Ball of Fire."

A few days ago, Somerset, Stanford, Mt. Vernon, Danville, and other towns south of here, were considerably shaken-up and the general opinion was that a meteor had fallen somewhere in that section. The State Geologist is making an effort to locate the cause of this phenomena, and has asked the Daily Register to publish the following:

News has come to us that what was probably a meteor passed over a portion of southern Kentucky about noon of April 9th. As I am interested in such phenomena I would like to have you announce through your columns that I would be pleased to receive more detailed information concerning this event from persons who witnessed it; and in particular I would like the following:

1—At what time was it first seen and about how long did it remain in sight, or, if it was heard, for how long a time.

2—What direction, with reference to the points on the compass, was the meteor travelling? Give degrees from the north or south point, east or west.

3—If the meteor was seen to disappear, was this by what appeared to be an explosion, and was this phenomena accompanied by a noise like thunder or cannonading?

4—Give direction with reference to the north or south point (east or west) point of this point.

5—Give angle of elevation of this point.

The answers to Nos. 2 and 4 will require a compass, or a watch, used as a compass. On a watch keeping sun time, if the hour hand is pointed toward the sun, half way between that direction and 12 o'clock is south, and the minutes on the dial can be used to measure degrees—each equalling 6 degrees of arc.

To answer 5 will require a hand level equipped with an elevation sight, or a paste board protractor, such as is used by students of trigonometry, can be substituted. Equipped with a plumb line, the degree of elevation of any point can be easily determined by such an instrument.

Of course, in answering Nos. 2, 4 and 5, the person will have to stand again on the same spot where he first witnessed the event. Very truly,

ARTHUR M. MILLER,
Department of Geology, University of Kentucky, Lexington.

Polished Pebbles

The musical drama which will be presented at the Normal chapel on Friday evening of this week by the Model and Normal School Glee Clubs, will unquestionably prove one of the most popular entertainments given in Richmond this season.

The scene is laid in the front yard of Mrs. O'Brien's farm house. The principal characters are Mrs. O'Brien, and her two daughters, her rich brother, Uncle Bob, Mrs. Gable, the village gossip, and Mr. Gable, her husband, Rosalie, Mrs. O'Brien's niece, and Nick and Martha, a country boy and girl. The cast is supported by a chorus of sunbonnet girls and overall boys.

While the story points a moral, it is replete with sparkling humor from start to finish and demonstrates that polished pebbles need not be mistaken for real gems, no matter how brightly they may shine. Everyone who can gain admission should hear this entertainment. Only a sufficient number of tickets have been printed to fill the chapel, and these may be procured from the members of the Glee Club or at the door. Admission will be 25 cents.

Sheriff Whitlock Makes Raid

A call received Saturday sent Sheriff Pete Whitlock to Waco, where he was successful in raiding a fast growing crap game being run by a negro by the name of Palley Fry. Five men were in the game and the sheriff says sugar barrels, stoves, and closets were used as hiding places when his sudden approach created a panic. Palley Fry and Ambrose Ballew were placed in jail to await the action of the court.

A TRIBUTE TO MRS. GEORGE TIPTON

Who died March 27th. Her father called her home and shut the door from life's busy cares and responsibilities. I am sure she is one of those John spoke of in Revelations when he said: "These are they which came out of great tribulation and have washed their robes and made them white in the Blood of the Lamb." She was a quiet and independent character, but like many another of God's children, had many trials and tribulations. Yet she remained faithful to duty's demands. Life to her was no idle dream, but the doing of things worth while. One of her chief joys was the preparation of her Sunday School lesson, and the exchanging of those ideals with the members of her class. Truth was more to her than praise of men, and marked in her Sunday School magazine are these words: "Jesus always understands and always appreciates." The Bible was to her a guide post to Christian life. The church was the doorway through which she could best serve the Lord. She believed the hours spent in christian worship were necessary to the soul's development. So much did she believe in a developed christian character that even after death there was an invisible something about her that seemed to whisper "higher." And these words of Longfellow best describe that sacred hour:

There, in the twilight, cold and gray,
Lifeless, but beautiful she lay
And from the sky, serene and far,
A voice fell like falling star.

A FRIEND.

Hun Delegates To Be Heard

(By Associated Press)
Paris, April 14—Havas—The Petit Parisien understands that peace conference leaders have fixed on a date which will be before April 20th, when the German delegates will be called into the conference.

According to another version, after the enemy delegates are admitted to the peace congress, as it will be called they will be summoned between April 25 and May 5. Indications are that the Germans will be given an opportunity to discuss the peace terms before the Congress, but that no extended discussion will be permitted, two weeks being suggested as the outside limit for the sessions at Versailles, which President Wilson is expected to attend.

The chief question as regards the peace terms remaining to be settled now, are that of the Saar Valley and reparation. The problems to be disposed is that the Rhine frontier, debate on which this week is likely to center upon the French contention for security from a military standpoint.

The French opposition to the Monroe Doctrine amendment to the League of Nations covenant is based on this feature fearing it is given a European application it might prevent the United States again helping France in the event of a future German attack.

Bryan, of Guantanamo, Cuba, asking for prices on two Big Type Poland China gilts to be shipped to that place. In his letter Mr. Bryan states that he had read the classified adv. of Mr. White's in the Daily Register, where he stated he had a choice lot of registered Poland China hogs for sale, and it was through this medium he was able to locate just the gilts he had been looking for.

Cuba is a long ways from Fostown, but the Daily Register can go still further.

Bend.

"The race is not to the swift, nor the battle to the strong." We were disappointed when the road tax fell down. The good old county of Madison will come to the front later on. If the tax had been voted and with state aid, in a short time good roads would have been in all parts of the county. Under the present system, mud will prevail and there will be but little improvement in roads.

Mr. and Mrs. Pleas Dennis gave the young people a party Saturday night; there were a dozen boys and girls present. Uncle Billy Walters, a noted violinist of the old school, furnished the music. JEWISH RELIEF DRIVE OPENS TODAY

Col. P. H. Callahan Makes Strong Appeal For War Stricken Jews—$3,200 To Be Raised in 3 Days

The drive for the Jewish Relief fund started with much promise today in Richmond and the county and it is expected by the promoters to finish it in three days. A very gratifying part of the proposed total was pledged by the workers themselves before starting in the campaign and the spirit of the workers is to push it to a conclusion as rapidly as possible.

With three millions of Jews starving in the war stricken areas and with America as their only hope for relief, Madison county should quickly reach the goal set for her.

The meeting at the Baptist church last night in the interest of the drive was largely attended and the address by Col. P. H. Callahan was heard with the keenest interest. Col. Callahan has been in the midst of many war campaigns and did an excellent service in covering the call to help in the Jewish relief drive, and his message last night was a clear, clear appeal for the cause of Jewish relief.

Ernest Jones Dead.

The funeral services of Mr. Ernest Jones, who died Saturday evening, were held Monday afternoon from his late residence on West Main street, conducted by Dr. R. L. Telford, of the Presbyterian church, followed by interment in Richmond cemetery. The pallbearers were McFerran Crowe, B. F. Edwards, C. H. Keith, R. C. Stockton, M. B. Arbuckle, and D. H. Breck. Mr. Jones was the son of the late William Jones, and a nephew of J. O. Jones, and was well known all over the community. He had been in failing health for a number of years and it was for this reason he was forced to give up his profession of dentistry, and thinking possibly out-of-door work would benefit him, carried mail on one of the rural routes. However, his health continued to fail, and his death came Saturday evening. Besides his wife, he is survived by two children, to whom the sympathy of the entire community is extended in their sad bereavement.

Dock Francis Suffers Loss From Fire

Sunday morning the fire department was called out in answer to an alarm from Irvine street where the house of Dock Francis, colored, was ablaze. On account of the quick response of the fire lack, the damage to the house was slight, only a portion of the roof being damaged. The cause of the fire is unknown. Francis carried no insurance.

"Same old story," he carried no insurance. Better see me before it is too late and take out a policy insuring you against loss of this kind. I represent the best old time insurance. L. J. Brown.

Red Cross Makes Appeal For Garments

Mrs. W. H. Grider, of the local Red Cross headquarters, has received the following letter from the Louisville office:

"I have on the shelves in Cleveland 10,000 garments awaiting Kentucky's orders, to be finished by May 15th. This is the amount necessary to live up to our quota. Is it possible for you to do any more than you have on hand at present? I realize that it is hard work, but when the women know this is our last big quota, they are usually willing to push aside their personal affairs for a few weeks longer. Advertise at your movies, the churches, etc., and see if it is possible for you to help me out just a little bit more. If every chapter would do just a little bit more, we could go over the top in good shape. I have worked so strenuously on it that I am just a little bit anxious to make it go thru."

Sincerely, yours,
"Lida Hafford."
Executive Sec. for Kentucky.
Will the church circles respond once more? This is the last. Notify Mrs. W. H. Grider, at the Red Cross headquarters this week.

Woodson Heathman Makes Unusual Record

Woodson Heathman, living in the Newby section of the county, is having quite a race with time and from appearances he is going to win a good race.

Although he has passed his 97th milestone, he is still enjoying good health and is boasting to his friends that he has established one record that will be hard to beat. He has been living in the one house for the 97 years and has an old fashioned clock—one of those rare old specimens noted for its excellent time-keeping—that has been in the house with him the entire time, and has been running and keeping correct time during all these years.

The clock is a high floor clock and Mr. Heathman would like to hear from some one who can beat it.

Local Girl Maid of Honor To State D. A. R. Regent

Sunday's Courier Journal contained a splendid picture of a popular Richmond girl, who is among the maids of honor to the State Regent of the D. A. R., at the Continental Congress, to be held in Washington. The picture was that of Miss Marie Louise Kellogg, of this city, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Kellogg, and a charming member of the younger society set of the Blue Grass. The C-J. also had Mrs. Shackelford's picture and the other maids of honor, and said:

Mrs. Samuel J. Shackelford, of Frankfort, Kentucky State Regent of the Daughters of the American Revolution, one of the most attractive and popular matrons in the state, is the wife of Samuel J. Shackelford, prominent in business, social and political life of Kentucky, and a former state official.

Mrs. Shackelford was selected, and Mrs. G. W. Guernsey, President General of the National Society of D. A. R., has appointed as pages and aides for the Continental Congress, which will convene in Washington Monday, Miss Elizabeth Tandy, of Paducah, Miss Marie Louise Kellogg, of Richmond, and Miss Minnie Ball Moore, of Harrodsburg. These young girls who are in college in the East, will join Mrs. Shackelford tomorrow in the National Capitol, and she will be their chaperone to the many functions which are given to the Congress during the meeting and the many private parties which have been planned by Kentuckians who are in the capitol making their home.

COMMISSIONER ROPER DELUGED WITH INQUIRIES

Protests and Expressions of Approval Reach Revenue Office on Enforcement of Prohibition Laws.

(By Associated Press)
Washington, April 14—Hundreds of inquiries, protests and expressions of approval reached Internal Revenue Commissioner Roper today, as a result of his announcement that the internal revenue bureau had neither specific authority nor sufficient agents to enforce prohibition adequately after July 1st.

From all parts of the country and a wide variety of interests came telegrams asking for more details, but Commissioner Roper declined to add to his statement. At the Treasury Department, however, it was stated today, had not and will not make any representations to President Wilson concerning a possible means of postponing the effectiveness of prohibition until the constitutional amendment goes into effect January 16th, 1920. Officials indicated it might become an issue in Congress at the coming special session.

Huge Financial Payments Must Be Made By Huns

Paris, April 14—Bulletin—Germany, under the Peace Treaty must pay five billion dollars of its equivalent in commodities, before May 1st 1921 and must also issue immediately to the allied and associated governments twenty billion dollars in bonds bearing two or three per cent interest which according to the present plan will bear five per cent interest after 1926. The bonds will be payable in installments during a period of 15 years. They probably will be kept in control of a central commission of the allied and associated governments so that they will not be marketed in quantities sufficient to break the price.

Germany must also obligate herself to pay other amounts for damage done, appropriate to her means, to be determined by a mixed commission composed of Allied and German Government Representatives which shall report before May 1, 1921.

Good News For The Wets

Washington, April 14—Bulletin—Transportation of intoxicating liquors through a dry state is not prohibited under the Reed Prohibition amendment the supreme court held today in opinion interpreting that act.
